

Landscape Irrigation Auditor

March 19 - 20, 2009
University of New Mexico
Dane Smith Hall, Room 120
601 Yale Blvd., NE
Albuquerque, NM 87131

Sponsored by
UNM and NM Water
Conservation Alliance

Course Description

12 IA CEUs. This workshop deals directly with the issue of wise water management. In it, you will learn how to perform field tests on irrigation systems to determine their efficiency, and how to combine plant water use, soils and local weather data to calculate accurate water schedules for irrigation systems. Following the workshop, the Certified Landscape Irrigation Auditor (CLIA) exam will be administered for an additional fee.

Prerequisites strongly recommended: A basic understanding of sprinkler system operation before attending this workshop and taking the exam. Some suggested preparatory courses that are also available through IA are Irrigation System Installation and Maintenance and Field Hydraulics.

Course includes: One and a half days of instruction and class manual. Optional software available.

Register by Mar. 6
